of a letter from a gentleman at Springfield, friend in this city, dated September 29.

Saturday morning laſt Eliſha Porter, Eſq; heriff of this county arrived in town from and informed that numbers of perſons were g, in different parts of the county with an deſign of preventing the Judges of the Su- Court proceeding to buſineſs—That he had nown the matter to General Shepard, and that the Court-Houſe in this town might be that night. The inhabitants of this town tely collected, and paraded in the Court- and lay upon their arms the whole night in ary expectation of the inſurgents; they did ear that night. On Sunday morning we ieved by a body of militia from Northamp- he friends to government came flocking in quarters. On Tueſday morning there were d, in favor of government, about 800 men ely officered, who bore arms, and about 5 pectators, with white paper in their hats to them to be of the governmental party. The and other gentlemen of the court, arrived in Monday evening, and on Tueſday morn- he appointed time and in the uſual manner, proceeded to buſineſs, and continued by adjournments, to Thurſday, when they adjourned ſine die—not through fear of the rioters, but on account of the noiſe and tumult that pervaded every part of the town. The mobility, on Tueſday morning, were about 600 ſtrong, encamped about three quarters of a mile north of the Court-Houſe; they increaſed continually, ſo that in the afternoon of the ſame day, there were collected above 900 armed men, who were embodied, and 4 or 500 by-ſtanders, with green boughs in their hats, the inſignia of mobs. By the conſent of our party, they marched by the Court-Houſe, about half a mile ſouth, and immediately returned to the ground they before occupied. On Wedneſday committees were choſen from both parties, to conſult and determine what meaſures to take to give ſatisfaction. It was a long time before they could agree, though finally they ſettled a treaty; the report of the committee, which was read to both parties on this day, is as follows: General Shepard to march his troops on Continental Hill, and there diſband. Capt. Shays, the leader of the mob, to march his party on the ground adjacent to the Court-Houſe, diſband, and every man return immediately to his home; they accordingly did ſo, and peace and tranquility once more reigned in this town. In conſequence of this unhappy inſurrection, the High Sheriff ordered the criminals that were confined in gaol in this town to be liberated. Our party did not diſperſe until the rioters were moſtly got out of town, as it was feared they would, after having got rid of their officers, commit every depredation that the vileſt motives could ſuggeſt; they were as civil as could be expected from ſo numerous a body of men, collected in ſo illegal a manner, and for ſo unwarrantable a purpoſe:—It muſt be obſerved, that the governmental party were men of property, of virtue and conſideration, and that the inſurgents, were one half of them, men of the vileſt principles and deſperate in their fortunes."

P I T T S B U R G H, Auguſt 26.

On Saturday laſt arrived here from New-York, Scotoſh half King of the Wiandots, by whom we have received the following meſſage from Congreſs to the Wiandot, Delaware, and Shawaneſe nations of Indians.

By the United States in Congreſs Aſſembled, New-York, July 24, 1786.

Ordered that the following meſſage be ſent by Scotoſh to the Wiandot, Delaware, and Shawaneſe nations of Indians:

Brothers,

The WIANDOTS, DELAWARES, and SHAWANESE.

THE United States are happy that our good brother the half King of the Wiandots hath thought proper to ſend his ſon Scotoſh to Congreſs with a meſſage full of friendſhip and love, and withal to inform Congreſs, that although matters are at peace and quiet among the Wiandots, Delawares, and Shawaneſe, yet there are bad men among the Wabaſh, Twightee, and Miami nations, who may attempt to interrupt the Surveyors of the United States.

Brothers,

We thank you for your good advice and kind intention of abiding in peace with the United States.

Brothers,

We ſhall be ſorry if any of the Wabaſh, Twightee, or Miami nations ſhould ſo far loſe ſight of their own true intereſt as to ſtrike the Surveyors of the United States: But if they do, the warriors of the United States are ſtrong, and will ſoon ſtrike them in their towns, and make them repent of their folly: But Congreſs are willing to take the Wabaſh, Twightee, and Miami nations by the hand, as brothers, whenever they will come to Fort-Pitt.

Brothers,

Congreſs will take care to keep the path plain and open, that our brothers of every nation of Indians may come to the great Council of the United States, in order to make the chain of friendſhip ſtrong and bright.

By order of Congreſs,

KNOX, Secretary.

Extract of a letter from Chriſtopher Wyant, to Alexander Fowler, merchant, of this place dated Poſt-Vincent, the 20th June, 1786.

"We have collected, Sir, a great quantity of beaver and other furs, and were determined to ſtart for Pittſburgh in order to make you a return for the goods we received of you, but we concluded, that with ſo valuable a cargo, the riſk was too great.

"I propoſe to embark for Pittſburgh in September, by which time I expect Mr. Huling will have returned from Cumberland River, and Mr. Davenport from the Jeneſee. You may depend that I ſhall be as careful as poſſible, and uſe every precaution in my power with the Indians. I hope you received my letter by Col. Parker, at the time he left us every thing was in confuſion, but now we are more quiet, and things wear a different aſpect; we have held two councils with them, and they pretend to be ſorry for what they have done, but their profeſſions, we are convinced, proceed from fear; they have found from fatal experience that we are their maſters. The 16th of April we gave them a proof of it, though not without great reluctance. I refer you to my letter of the 10th of May by Col. Parker, for an account of the battle."

This letter of the 10th of May alluded to, Mr. Fowler received, of which the following is an extract.

"On Saturday the 15th of April laſt, a trading boat was proceeding up the Wabaſh for this place, which was attacked by the Savages within five leagues of this place, when they fired from a thicket, and killed one man and wounded two; the boat was ſteered to a place of ſecurity, and a runner diſpatched to us Americans, for aſſiſtance to bring them up. By the time we got to the boat, we were attacked by a numerous body of Kickapeans and Painkeſhaws; we fought them, but were defeated, with the loſs of two men killed and three wounded. We felt for our countrymen, and were determined not to leave them a prey to ſavage barbarity, and propoſed to give them battle again, and to reſcue our countrymen, or fall in the attempt. We did ſo, a reenforcement of twenty brave fellows joining us at this time, we ruſhed on them with ſuch impetuoſity as drove them from their cover, and totally routed them, leaving ten killed and twice the number wounded.

"The King of the Kickapeans received a ball in his backſide, and the Queen of the Painkeſhaws miſcarried of a Prince, the firſt born of the family, and on whom the nation placed great hopes. This account we have from the French traders, who declare, that ſince they knew the Wabaſh, they never heard ſuch lamentations among the ſavages. Three hundred Indians were oppoſed to ſeventy-five Americans, and beat with conſiderable loſs; many of the principal warriors were mortally wounded and carried off. In this action we had one man killed and three wounded.

"We have had council on council with them ſince this affair, they appear to be as abject as brutal; finding they could not rob us, they have turned beggars: We are actually plagued with their ſolicitations and fair promiſes. While they behave peaceable, we are determined to treat them well, but they are a compoſition of deceit, and it would be folly in the extreme to truſt them."

Sept. 30. The Commiſſioners appointed to extend and complete the line of the weſtern boundary of Pennſylvania by aſtronomical obſervations, have completed ſaid line, and are returned to this town on their way to their reſpective homes.

We have the pleaſure to inform our readers that the line extends near one mile and a half into Lake Erie.

By Major Harding, who arrived here the 22d inſt. from George's-Creek, we are informed, that an account came from that ſettlement to Morgan-Town by ſeveral perſons, and ſays it is to be relied on, that ſix days ago, near the mouth of Buffalo-Creek, which is near the forks of the Monongahela and Cheat Rivers, the family of Mr. Drago were ſeveral of them murdered, and the remainder taken priſoners. He eſcaped himſelf, being in a field pulling beans, and hearing the ſcreams of the children; his wife was killed: Alſo Jacob Schoyler's family, near the ſame place, were killed or taken, not any eſcaped: Alſo John Ice and William Ice are miſſing, and a number of others are ſuppoſed to be murdered. Mr. Drago, who ſaw the ſavages, thinks they were about fifteen. They were ſuppoſed to be Delawares or Wyandots, as this ground is known to them, and that to which they uſed to come. The more ſouthern Indians are not ſuppoſed ever to have been in this quarter.
